Chairman's Review

There is not a dull moment in the Humanity First world! 2016 was another very exciting and special year for all of us at Humanity First. When the year comes to an end, we always reflect and ponder upon following two important questions:

Did we excel in our compassion for God's creations? Did we utilize our full strength and resources for the benefit and service of fellow human beings?

Imagine if a society, a nation, a country as a whole could answer "yes" to the above questions. Would it not bring peace to the world? Would it not alleviate human suffering? Compassion for others put together with service to humanity can change your personality. In fact, it is so contagious that it can change the world!

If each one of us makes a commitment to excel in our compassion for other human beings and to utilize our God-gifted faculties for the benefit of mankind, then we are bound to notice a constructive change in ourselves, that will in turn have a positive impact on our families, at our work place, on society, on the country and on the whole world. At the very least, it will be a stepping stone for bringing peace and alleviating human suffering.

Being human comes with a responsibility to be there for each other – each and every day – helping others – no matter the distance that separates them – is what humanity is all about. Whether it is about assisting victims of Fort McMurray fire or sponsoring anmd resettling Syrian refugees, we open our hearts, homes and pockets to those most in need. In difficult times, we are at our very best!

2016 was a special year as we celebrated the 50 Years of Ahmadiyya Muslim Community in Canada by doing 50 Humanitarian Projects around the world. We are very thankful to all those who supported the Humanity First "50 Years – 50 Projects" initiative and sponsored one or more projects and made a difference in someone's life. This was our way of Thanksgiving!

Service to humanity is an obligation upon every human being. We must fulfil the needs of people regardless of their faith and we should seek to understand one another based upon the principles of humanity.

Whether volunteering for a foodbank, taking care of an orphan child, taking care of newly arrived refugee family, drilling water wells in Africa, building hospitals and schools or responding to disasters, our volunteers make us part of one family – the Canadian family – the humanitarian family!

Humanity First is proud of its volunteers and their contributions. They are exceptional individuals and makes our communities stronger and more inclusive. My sincere thanks and gratitude to the efforts and dedication of our countless volunteers! May God Almighty bless you all! Ameen!
